Columbus Waterfield Is Victor in Suit Against the Wabash Railway.

LLOYD CASE TODAY

Suit to Contest the Will of Former Columbian Tried in Circuit Court.

Columbus Waterfield of Centralia, who sued the Wabash Railway Company for $10,000 personal damages, was awarded half that amount by the verdict of the jury reported at 9:45 o'clock this morning in the Boone County Circuit Court.

The case of J. W. Peebly and others against Elma U. Lloyd and others contesting the will of Simeon B. Lloyd consumed the entire day today. Witnesses were still being examined at 3:45 o'clock this afternoon.

The will of Simeon B. Lloyd provided that the bulk of the property, valued at about $40,000, should be left to Elma U. Lloyd and others. The other nieces and nephews were given about $250 each. The plaintiff declares that Simeon B. Lloyd was of unsound mind and was influenced in the assignment of his estate.

Gillaspie & Conley and C. W. Journey are the attorneys for the plaintiffs, and Finley & Sapp for the defendants.

CAN'T CALL OUT M. C. CADETS

Mobilization Orders Do Not Affect University Battalions.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—The cadet corps at the University of Missouri is not affected by President Wilson's order calling for the militia to the service of the Federal Government, according to officials of the War Department.

The corps was organized merely for training purposes, and although its equipment is provided by the War Department, which also furnishes an officer of the regular army to instruct the students, the members are not obligated to serve the Federal Government unless they desire to enter the army from civil life as lieutenants.

"The students of the cadet battalion at the State University," said Brigadier General Henry P. McCain, adjutant general of the army, tonight, "are not members of the national guard, and, therefore, are not affected by the calling out of the militia for federal service. These cadet battalions at educational institutions were formed to fit students for the admission to the army as second lieutenants in case they desire commissions. They are trained by regular army officers, but they are not subject to service when the militia is called out."

COVERS ON MINEOLA HILLS

A committee consisting of J. A. Hudson, J. M. Taylor, W. T. Anderson, S. F. Conley and J. M. Batterton met at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the Commercial Club rooms to talk over a way to improve the Mineola Hills. The plan of the committee is to get cooperation from the other towns along the trail.

If a certain amount of money can be raised from the towns along the Boone's Lick Trail, then the Mineola Hills can be improved. This will practically insure tourist travel over this trail, making Columbia and the Boone Tavern the stop-over between St. Louis and Kansas City.

PERSHING, 'MAN OF SORROW,' IS FIGHTER AND DIPLOMAT

A Missourian is Brigadier-General John J. Pershing, who is leading the United States troops in Mexico. He is a native of Linn County.

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—A fighting soldier who wins battles by diplomacy is a rarity. But that is the distinction accorded Brigadier-General John J. Pershing, the "man of sorrow" of the army, whose beautiful wife and three baby girl children were burned to death in a fire that destroyed their home in San Francisco, August 27, 1915.

Many and picturesque are the tales told of this Beau Brummel of the army, a handsome, dashing soldier, brilliant and bloody in battle, equally brilliant in bloodless conquests; hero of romance and strife; a linguist, diplomat, scholar; a man who won his rank as much through peaceful conquering of his enemies as through daring leadership in military campaigns against them.

Pershing and the Philippines are synonymous. It was Pershing—then Captain Pershing of the First, later the Fifteenth, Cavalry—who drew the task of subduing the fanatical Moros on Mindanao and Jolo. He was given 2,200 men—and free rein. Not one of those men was sacrificed in battle. Instead of beginning a war of extermination against the Moros, Captain Pershing began a study of their language. He soon mastered their tongue. He assembled the Moros, fanatical Mohammedans, on Fridays (their Sundays) and, taking texts from the Koran, talked to them on reconciliation with the United States Government. In this way, without fighting a single battle, he won all but two of the mountain tribes and was consecrated a Datto by the sultans of the tribes.

Crashes Opposing Tribes

But with the two tribes who spurned his efforts at peaceful conquest, he showed relentless and crushing power. Their strong mountain forts fell before his onslaught until forty had been captured and their last stronghold taken. One hundred and seventy-five Moros paid the extreme penalty in battle for their folly. Only thirteen American soldiers were wounded, none killed.

His conquest in Mindanao resulted in Pershing's appointment as adjutant-general of that island and Jolo, and Colonel Roosevelt, then President, surprises the entire army organization by promoting him over the heads of $62 ranking officers to be brigadier-general.

Promotion Comes After Struggle

But this promotion came only after a bitter struggle that threatened for a time to blacken him forever. He had married the daughter of Senator Warren of Wyoming a year before promotion, in January, 1915. The wedding was one of the most brilliant social affairs in the history of the capitol. Angry criticism arose, some charging that the promotion was due to favoritism. Roosevelt asserted that he did not recall at all the fact that General Pershing was a son-in-law of Senator Warren when he promoted him.

Of his three little baby daughters who were burned to death when his wife lost her life, one was born in Tokio, Japan, in 1906, while the then Captain Pershing was military attaché at the Japanese embassy; one was born in Baguio, Philippines, in 1908, and the youngest was born in Zamboango, Philippines, in 1912.

General Pershing's first fighting experience was against the Indian outlaw Geronimo on a punitive expedition into Mexico in the late eighties. He later fought against the Sioux Indians in the Dakotas, served as military instructor of cadets at the University of Nebraska, and as administrator of affairs in the provinces of Mindanao and Jolo, Philippine Islands. He speaks almost every modern language, as well as the tongues of many Indian and Philippine tribes. General Pershing was sent to the Mexican border in 1912 and served continuously there.

CHILDREN EVEN TALK OF WAR

It's Submarine or Airship in Their Games Here Now.

It's certainly in the air, the spirit of war. Even the children have caught it. Some small boys were playing in the northeast corner of the campus yesterday, throwing sticks into the stream.

"Here comes a submarine," shouted one. "Watch out! Something's going to happen!"

"Watch out yourself," retorted a tiny tot. "Mine's an airship. Now watch those Greasers run," and woe to the boy who was playing Mexican!

Typhoid Rumor Wrong, Says Doctor

The rumor of an epidemic of typhoid fever in Columbia was denied this afternoon by Dr. A. W. Kampschmidt. The rumor originated, Columbia physicians believe, in the fact that three cases of the disease were reported from the home of Mrs. H. P. Warden, 507 Hitt street.

RAIN HINDERS WORK ON HOTEL

All the Rest of Columbia's Building Goes on, However.

The work on the Hall Theater still goes on in spite of the rain, but work of excavation for the Daniel Boone Tavern has had to cease on account of the ponds of water which stand in the excavations.

If the rain stops now it will probably be two or three days before work can be resumed.

The wreckers at work on the building at Eighth street and Broadway continue to tear it away, and excavations for the New Boone County Bank building will begin in a few days.

ENTIRE U. S. MILITIA ORDERED TO BORDER

Secretary Baker Directs Every State Commander to Forward His Troops.

NO DECLARATION YET

Britain Is Asked to Care for American Interests—Case Still Diplomatic.

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Secretary Baker this afternoon issued orders for every militia commander in the country to send his troops to the border as soon as possible. Many will probably move tonight.

The United States has requested Great Britain to take care of the American interests in Mexico. This step is merely a precaution in case of war and has no other significance.

The future action of the Government depends on the nature of General Pershing's report on the fight at Carrizal Wednesday.

It is thought the course will be a diplomatic one, though it will perhaps be stronger than usual.
